ZDNet's Freedom of Association Utility

Description: When you launch a *.txt (text extension) file, Windows loads it into Notepad, thanks to the file association feature. ZDNet's Freedom of Association program lets you manage your file associations, offering many features that Windows lacks. You can view registered extensions and the file types associated with them, clean up invalid entries, correct erroneous associations, and add extensions to existing file types. Freedom of Association was written by Neil J. Rubenking and first appeared in "PC Magazine," June 30, 1998.

NOTE: ZDNET's Freedom of Association is an "old" copyrighted freeware tool from ZDNet for modifying file extension associations. Unfortunately, this title is no longer available.

ZDNet Password Pro 32 Utility

Description: ZDNet's Password Pro 32 is a handy utility that helps you track your various passwords. Use the program to store a list of usernames, passwords, and system information, and to set expiration warnings. You can keep track of all of your passwords and print out your password list. ZDNet Password Pro can even generate random replacement passwords for you. Depending on your software, you can drag your username or password into the appropriate Windows edit box.
